Ann Dugan Presents during iLEAD's US Module

What is iLEAD?

iLEAD is a unique US-China intergenerational, cross-cultural mentorship program. This exclusive program is a joint venture with Cornell University, the Cheung Kong Graduate School of Business (CKGSB), Next Opportunity Group and US China Partners. It aims to build a global business action network between emerging leaders from leading U.S., Western, and Chinese Legacy Families.

Through direct interactions with current wealth creators, corporate CEO's, successful entrepreneurs from some of the world's fastest growing companies, engaging discussions with faculty from the best universities in the world and unique cross-cultural experiences, iLEAD creates an impactful, visceral and memorable learning experience. Each iLEAD graduate will earn a Professional Masters Certificate from Cornell and CKGSB. The executive education program's 10-day US Module in Philadelphia and New York was concluded in June 2015 and included substantial family businesses from China and the USA.

Ann Dugan's Participation

Ann Dugan, a Managing Director at Headwaters|SC, serves on the advisory council for the iLEAD program and was a faculty member during the Philadelphia portion of the US Module. Ann presented the Headwaters' proprietary research of the Ten Mega-Trends which will fundamentally alter the North American economy over the next decade and how these trends must be considered in the family vision and strategic planning as part of the family entrepreneurial process.

For more information regarding iLEAD or Ann's participation, please contact Ann Dugan directly.
